

Skylark Online Design process

This is a process where all correspondence is long distance.

It does not try to replace a face to face design process but add a way people could get advice quicker and have a helping hand in their journey in making a new outdoor space.

It is designed that all correspondence can be done by email / digitally.

What I will need from you?

Essential

- A completed questionnaire
- As many photos as possible – try to include one from above, perhaps from a room from one of the top floors of your house
- Aspect – is it south facing for example?

Desirable

- Any plans that you may have outlining the boundaries of the site
- Measurements of the dimensions – even if its just length and width
- Soil type – some households might have soil testing equipment for the ph levels– even a picture of your soil from different areas of your garden can help to create a picture of what your soil type and structure is like.

Payment

Once we have agreed you would like to proceed, I will invoice you with all my bank details 50% to kick start the project and then final 50% on completion.
